Colorado college of dental surgery, Denver. (I, 1897–1901)

A Dental department was organized by the University of Colorado in 1884, and was conducted in Denver for one year; "in June of 1887 a decision ... in the Supreme court of the state ... declared it impossible for any department of the State university to be conducted elsewhere than at Boulder, the seat of the school"; the Colorado college of dental surgery was therefore organized independently in Denver from the Faculty of the Dental department of the University of Colorado, and was incorporated. In 1901 the college united with the Denver college of dentistry, founded 1887 (Dental department of the University of Denver), to form a reorganized Dental department of the University of Denver, the department being commonly known as Colorado college of dental surgery. To distinguish it from the earlier institution of that name it is entered in the Library of Congress catalog as Colorado college of dental surgery (II, 1901–)

"The first permanent work in behalf of discharged and paroled prisoners in Colorado was by the Prisoners' aid society, organized January 28 [i. e. 29], 1892. This was succeeded and included by the Colorado society for the friendless October 22, 1903, which was also succeeded and included by the Colorado prison association, December 8, 1905. The Prisoners' aid society never issued and official reports; but the history has been recognized as beginning with that organization, and the annual reports have been numbered accordingly."—Letter from the secretary of the society, addressed to the librarian of Congress, and dated Oct. 17th, 1916.

Columbia, S. C. Lutheran theological seminary.

In 1834 the Synod of South Carolina established a Classical and theological institute at Lexington, S. C.; this was reorganized 1859 as Newberry college, with a theological department which was closed during the civil war; reorganized 1867 as the Theological seminary of the Evangelical Lutheran General synod of South, and located successively at Newberry, Walhalla and Columbia, S. C., and in 1873 at Salem, Va.; discontinued in 1884. A theological department was reestablished at Newberry college 1886 under the South Carolina synod; in 1892 the United Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church in the South adopted this department as its theological seminary, and in 1896 had it removed to Mt. Pleasant, S. C., and in 1911 to Columbia. Upon the merging of the United Synod into the United Lutheran church in America in 1918, the seminary came under control of eight southern synods of this church.

Ateneo di Brescia Commentari.

Commentaria in Aristotelem graeca. Edita consilio et auctoritate Academiae litterarum regiae borussicae ... Berolini, typ. et impensis G. Reimeri, 1882–1909.

23 v. 25cm.

The commentary on the Parva naturalia (vol. v, 6) formerly ascribed to Themistius, is by Sophonias. The commentaries of Joannes Philoponus (vol. xiii-xvii) are in part based upon the lectures of Ammonius Hermeiou; the commentary on De generatione (vol. xiv, 2) is by Michael of Ephesus. The author of the paraphrasis of the Ethica Nicomachea (vol. xix, 2) is unknown. It had previously been published as a work of Andronicus Rhodius; the name "Heliodorus Prusaeus" is an invention of Palaiokappa (cf. Berl. philol. wochenschr. ix, col. 1449/20).

A supplement of both the edition of Aristotle's works by the Berlin Academy (1831-1870) and of the Commentaria, is the Supplementum Aristotelicum editum consilio et auctoritate Academiae litterarum regiae Borussicae ... Berolini, 1885-1903.

The names given on the t.-p. are those of a "Committee on Europe" which had its inception in 1938. The first conference of the committee was held at Atlantic City in May 1940 at which time "it seemed too late ... for a 'Committee on Europe' and on Europe alone. It became as a temporary nucleus, with any further specification, a 'Committee,' tentatively, 'of fifteen'." At a second conference held at Sharon, Connecticut in August 1940, William Allan Neilson was elected chairman and G. A. Borgese, secretary. cf. p. 106-113.
